Since the outbreak of COVID-19, webinars have become a prevalent tool for sharing best practices in teaching within the hospitality education sector. Without a doubt, webinars provided a platform for educators to connect and learn from each other despite geographical barriers

Nevertheless, as we adapt to evolving trends and educators' busy schedules, it's time to explore more flexible formats. Bite-sized video series offers an innovative alternative, aligning with the popularity of short-form content on platforms like TikTok. These concise videos can deliver impactful insights quickly, making it easier for teachers to integrate professional development into their hectic routines.

APacCHRIE is going to introduce its own Master Class series – which will help hospitality educators continue to thrive in a rapidly changing educational landscape. Stay tuned, and our series will be released soon!
